

Doodh Patti chai

Hi Bern! I kept forgetting to send you doodh patti (chai) recipe. This is for 3 cups.

3 cups whole milk (if you use any other milk like almond or oat, you won't get the same taste)

1/2 cup water

3 to 4 black tea bags (you can also use loose tea, but I use tea bags. The two famous black tea brands I've seen in my family are Tapal Danedar and Tetley, but I'm sure any black tea would do)

3 to 4 cardamom pods

Sugar to taste

Add all the ingredients into a pot and cook on medium to high heat. Bring it all to a boil. Once it comes to a boil, start stirring to make it creamier. By stirring I mean to scoop the tea using a ladle and pour it back into the pot. Keep doing this until you see the perfect beige/light brown color. Now you'll pour the tea into your cup and make sure to use a strainer so any loose tea or cardamom pods don't come along. You can always add more sugar directly into your cup if the tea isn't sweet enough. Enjoyyyy :)